thing" in the President of the United States. Why

I ask, cannot one single branch of the Govern-ment be free from political bias—outside the pale of political machinery? It is a disgrace to our country that we are unable to say that justice is meted out without a flage of the politics of one or other of the predominant parties. To allow partisanship in the Supreme Court is to make every

Supreme Court to be used by politicians for re-warding party fidelity—how long is it to be one of the prizes in the political "grab-bag?" How much better will it be for the people when only such judges are appointed on the Supreme Bench who possess qualities sufficient to enable them to rise above the demands of a party, and who will labor

THE IRISH QUESTION.

Great Britain's Same Old Game-A Slight Retrospect. "F. P. C." sends the following on the Irish question: "Permit me, as a citizen of Irish birth and race, but one who as layally loves the dear old flag as any who first drew breath beneath it, to thank THE REPUBLICAN for its intelligent and outspoken expose of the stupid hoax now being attempted by symposicing England on the American people. Great Britain has seen a fitting dent's life, following close as it did the Nihilist as-sactination of the Carr, to pawn one of her very old police tricks upon the more gullible of the American press and people, and in doing so is no doubt anly seconded by her subsidized agenta through the States. Irish lawyers and police arents have long been thoroughly acquainted with what is called 'manufacturing evidence,' a process by which many an obnoxious peasant in he 'proclaimed districts' has been tried and convicted for the illegal possession of fire-arms placed over night in the thatch of his cabin by the same hand that next day found it. The present

GAME OF GREAT BRITAIN is but a slight variation of this same old trick, and, preceded, as it was, by the unusual gusts of "sympathy" from Mr. Gladstone and our loving consins in general, is an insult to the intelligence of the American people. Supposing a revolutionary so-plety existing in Ireland decided on introducing Thomassen clockwork machines into the coun would an organization composed exclusively idiots import such machines, ready set up and saded, packed in barrels of cement, with printed inducet, packed in barries of cement, with printed bill-heads, and shipped on vessels containing hun-dreds of our common kindred? The cities of Dub-lin, Boinst, Cork, or even Liverpool contain Irish mechanics equal to those in any part of the United States, and, did Irish revolutionary leaders so desire, it required little risk and less ingenuity to provide invest the approximated pleakers. openly import the necessary clockwork from France or Switzerland, to be afterward put to-gether by skilled members of the organization, Your able article suggests comparison between English sympathy for American national distress to-day and twenty years since. On the 5th of November, 1861, when Captain Wilkes, of our navy, aptured the rebel envoys, Mason and Slidell, fre

While the London Times demanded war and English sentiment wherever it could get vent rejoiced at our defeats and bewalled our victories, the Irish Prople newsaper, then the organ of Irish liberty, published in ublin by O'Donovan Rossa, declared, as its notto: 'England: Her friends our enemies-her enemics our friends." The navy-yards of Glasgow, Scotland, turned loose on our commerce in quick succession infernal machines called the Georgia, the Shenandoab, the Chickamauga, and the Olustee, fully armed. equipped, and manned. From the docks of Liverpool was dispatched in like manner the pirate Florida, which in the Cainning of her areer gave us a taste of English sympathy by destroying fifteen unarmed American merchantmen. Last, though by no means least, comes the Alaoama. Built by English subscription in the docks of Liverpool, armed with guns and munitions from English arsenals, she destroyed nearly

Do Americans so soon forget the stalwart arms that so willingly plied sponge and rammer between her decks, as our flag was swept from the high seas, were knit with the muscle of this self-same sympathizing England? Do they forget the Alabama's English tender, Deerhound, and how she smuggled the pirate Semmes right from under the guns of the Kearsarge† These are non-historical facts, which it would be well to remember before expending too nuch mandiln sentiment on the home-made out ages of our now affectionate cousin."

peaceable Indians. My object when called upon was to show what I sincerely believe, from many years' observation, that bad men, both military and citizens, furnish Indians with whisky, and from ignorance and cupidity incite them to assaults, robberies, &c., and that Barga, Pugb, and others were victims of a neglect and want of efficiency on the part of the Government, in not keeping the treaties with Indians, and especially in not prevent-ing bad white men from furnishing them whisky, and thereby exciting them to war. Evidences of this with these same Apaches, under Cochise, will be found in the reports of the Indian peace com-missioners published in 1870 and 1871. W. F. M. ARNY.

District Attorney Corkhill visited Guicau at the jail yesterday for the first time in ten days. The prisoner sent word that he had an imortant communication to make, and when asked Colonel Corkhill as to its nature he produced a tition covering four or five pages for release on $15,000 ball. He stated that he did not want it pre scrited to the court for a few days, but was anxious for Attorney Corkbill to look it over and give him an opinion as to the merits of the case. document is written in a small, firm hand, and the case is set forth in a logical manner peculiar to Guiseau. The petition is based on general principles, and contains but few references to statutory laws. With a few exceptions the paper is drawn up in correct legal form, and exhibits considerable familiarity with legal procedure. He the United Order of Galilean Fishermen was lays special stress upon the fact that the President called to order yesterday morning in the hall on is now in a fair way to recover, and therefore he should not be further deprived of his liberty. Guiteau also said that he did not wish to see any lawyers, as he felt capable of managing his own affairs in this respect. The prisoner is still confined in the cell in which he was placed the first day he was taken to the jail.

The Virginia Historical Society have received from George Mason, of Alexandria, the great grandson of the author of the Virginia bill of rights, the table upon which this instrument was written. This table is of English oak, and almost as it was in Colonal George Mason's time, except to the extent of some very injudicious attempts at repairs, made after the rebellion, to "reconstruct" for injuries done by Federal soldiers. They had knocked off the two brass knobs of the drawer and injuried the curious old claw-shaped feet of each leg. The knobs were replaced by wooden ones; the feet, by splicing on wooden pieces to make the legs longer.

Sharks teeth of great size and other bones of the monster fish of the deep have been found, and have been removed, to be kept as curiosities. Several years ago it was a very common thing to find these specimens, and doubtless some of them have been picked up more recently. The extent of these deposits is of course unknown, as no effort has ever been made to dig for them."
